Investment in individual markets is complicated and it can take years of hard work to build the experience which results in a successful career. But investors want to grow their assets here and now. Copy or mirror investment solves the problem in part but makes it harder to separate the true professionals from newbie investors, and raises security and responsibility concerns. In short, it's as hard to define investors' existent and potential performance as it is to mine yourself. HTS FLOW GROWTH INVESTMENT LIMITED is the solution. Based on the performance analysis of millions of investors around the world, it picks the most suitable and consistent investors and automatically creates an investment portfolio that fits every single private investor.

All the investor needs to do is invest and watch their capital work for them. If this done, the portfolio will be automatically created and the investor will start receiving benefits immediately. Each trader's performance and results will be tracked, recorded and stored in block chain and therefore it will be impossible to falsify, modify or delete them to mislead investors. Investors will receive a 100% guarantee that investors' performance data is genuine. The investor thus becomes independent from all the intermediaries that devour his profits by charging commissions - no investment funds or companies are a part of this process anymore. Since the beginning of human history investment has been a universal way of exchanging goods and services. In many ways investment made us who we are now - it's an essential part of our lives. Every day billions of transactions take place around the world - we buy food, talk on the phone, and get paid for our jobs. And yet at the same time we invest. We pay for our kids' schools, buy houses, all with the purpose of investing in our future and the future of our families. Even though you might not notice it in your daily routine, the fact is clear: modern life is impossible without investment and investing.
